Quotable Quote: "Celebrate ending- for they precede new beginnings"

New Year Celebration

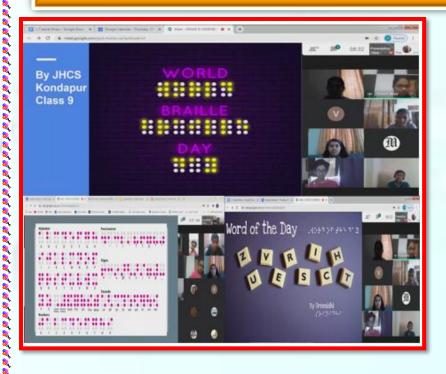

Let's make our New Year resolution to be there for each other and help fellow human beings in need even if we don't know them personally.

So, come let's spread some kindness and cheer!

Jain Heritage-A Cambridge School, Kondapur bid a befitting farewell to the year 2020 and welcomed the new year 2021 by organizing virtual class assemblies on 2nd January 2021. This year the world is in the throes of one of the most devastating pandemics witnessed by the human race. The stringent Covid-19 prevention protocols call for isolation and social distancing. But there were still ways in which everyone can ring in the new year with great pomp and show. The virtual celebrations featured performances from students like singing, dancing, etc. Some student participants of the virtual meet dressed up as their favorite actor or actress and enacted one dialogue from the movie character they were portraying while the others guessed the actor and the film. The students and the faculty members enjoyed and welcomed the new year 2021 in their unique way. The fun filled celebrations concluded with a special audio recorded message from the School Principal to the students, their parents, and the staff for the New Year 2021.

Special Assembly Presentation on World Brailles Day by Grade IX

"There should be no limits for the blind." The Braille day is celebrated to commemorate the birthday of a unique soul who has developed a simple way for the blind people to read, write and even compose music or solve complex equations. A stunning special assembly was conducted on 4th January by the students of Grade IX on the topic "World Braille Day". They showed how Braille has given the blind sight, and thereby made them equals with those who are fortunate enough to have eyes. A beautiful quote of Braille was shared to the class by Vikitha. Ganesh took the role of Louis Braille and shared the hardships the latter faced and the contributions that he made so that no other blind person would have to go through the same plight ever again. The Braille script is a genuine masterpiece. Just an arrangement of 6 raised dots in different places. It is that simple, but once it is mastered it can enable the blind to function as though they have the two windows to the world. A blind person no longer has restraints and can now show the world his or her individual genius. Braille teaches us that we must always be thankful for what we have, and know that if we are willing to persevere, any impossible task can be done with ease. He has given eyes to billions of people and is a true role model for the saying, "where there is a will, there is a way."

The students learned that - by living mindfully, they can work to reduce stress and anxiety while making the most of each moment. They also understood the importance of Meditation that begins and ends in the body. It involves taking the time to pay attention to where we are and what's going on, and that starts with being aware of our body, that very act can be calming, since our body has internal rhythms that help it relax if we give it a chance. The students meditated for 5 minutes and were indeed refreshed with the positivity around them. The assembly helped the students in imbibing the feelings of empathy, compassion, respect, and admiration to surface that results in a peaceful and empathetic environment and attain mindfulness.

Education in the Age of COVID-19

Anunidhi Sharma

Faculty, Jain Heritage A Cambridge School, Kondapur

She has 11 plus years of experience in the field of education. In her current role she has grown from being an educator and an individual contributor to Times of India NiE Coordinator. She received IIHM Teachers day Award for 2019.

The year 2020 is the year when the teachers evolved and a new version of them came into being - "GURU 2.0". It is the year when a new way of education became mainstream. Digital platforms of education have existed for some time but their reach especially in India remains a big question mark.

The pandemic threw life in general and the functioning of schools into a turmoil. School premises had to stay closed since the lockdown was first announced. School is a temple where the students interact with each other, where the moral values are inculcated, where the students develop social skills, develop communication skills, and the spirit of teamwork is developed. Students develop their personality and their character under the guidance and supervision of teachers, which leads to the holistic development of students. This temple is closed and the whole world is eagerly, anxiously waiting for it to reopen. Do students miss the temple? Do students feel the absence of personal touch of their teachers? Does our society miss the immeasureable contribution of teachers towards the students? The young students are bored of studying at home all the time. The parents are exhausted from meeting their children's demands. In the past, many parents were not clear about the critical role played by a teacher but this pandemic and isolation of the family at home has taught them the unmatchable role played by a guru in their ward's life.

There is only one profession that shapes all other professions i.e., the teaching profession. Covid has not turned the life of a teacher on its head. Teach from home was deemed far fetched and impossible but Teachers have learned a lot during the pandemic and evolved into their next version - GURU 2.0. They have become tech-savvy and spent hours learning the digital means of imparting education. This was done with the primary objective of continuing the education of children who would otherwise miss an entire year of their studies. They equipped themselves with the latest technology, learned skills like making presentations, scheduling meetings, maintain excel sheets for results, correcting the answer sheets on the platforms like Google forms, sending feedback for each answer sheet received. And even troubleshooting the hurdles faced by the parent and students in attending the classes. Working with a microphone, laptop, and the mouse was once the work of only computer teacher, but now even the language teachers use it.

Your Birthday always comes as we start another year. January is your month: you are born in the middle of the winter when nature was asleep. You are highly attentive, seldom shows emotions, sensitive, down to earth, caring and full of life.
